Potomac State's Fiftieth Anniversary

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

IN THE FOOTHILLS of the Allegheny Mountains at Keyser in the eastern panhandle of West Virginia is Potomac State School of West Virginia University, one of over 650 junior colleges in the United States and the only publicly supported one in this state.

Potomac State, in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of its founding, points with pride to the fact that this milestone in its history is a contribution to the life and growth of education in the state as a whole.

Of the 22 institutions of higher education in West Virginia, Potomac State is one of four junior colleges, the others being Beckley, Greenbrier College for Women, and Greenbrier Military School.

Potomac State has been a junior college since 1921. In 1935 the legislature placed it under the management of the Board of Governors of West Virginia University and its name became officially Potomac State School of West Virginia University. The origin of the school, however, goes back fifty years.

At the turn of the century, West Virginia was still a young state and its educational development was undergoing a period of transition. High schools were inadequate and preparatory schools were almost nonexistent. The growing population of the state called for the establishment of more secondary institutions of learning.

Judge Francis Marion Reynolds of Keyser, a member of the House of Delegates, framed and introduced a bill which was passed February 15, 1901, establishing the Keyser Preparatory Branch of West Virginia University. He had the support of several other men, both in the Legislature and in Keyser. One of these men, Colonel Thomas B. Davis of Keyser, donated 16 acres of land on Fort Hill for the erection of a school building.

By spring 1902 the school building was under construction, and that fall 80 students enrolled with Lloyd Lowndes Friend as principal. He served as principal from 1902 to 1905. His successors at the Keyser Preparatory School were Thomas Haught (1905-1908), Loraine Fortney (1908-1909), J. D. Muldoon (1909-1911), and J. C. Sanders, vice-principal since 1903, who served as acting principal until the appointment of Joseph Webster Stayman in 1911.

During Mr. Stayman's regime (1911-1936) the school grew in two major respects. First, the physical plant expanded to meet the demands of increased enrollment; and second, the school became a junior college and received changes in name.

During the first 12 years of the school's existence, the original administration building was the lone structure on the campus. Young men were given living quarters in the old Keys House several blocks from the school and young ladies from out of town lived in private homes. A dormitory building later named Davis Hall was completed in 1914 on an additional grant of land from Colonel Davis. It housed men in one wing and women in the other but is used today for men only.

Tragedy struck the school May 3, 1917, when a fire of uncertain origin destroyed the Administration Building and all the records. Another administration building, containing offices and classrooms still in use today, was erected on the same site in 1919.

During World War I and the years immediately following, the Keyser Preparatory Branch of West Virginia University found itself struggling to justify its existence. Efforts were made to strengthen it with the addition of a course in home economics and the purchase of 125 acres of land for experimental farming with not too great success.

By 1921 it was felt that local high schools were adequate to meet the demands for secondary education in the area, and in that year the Legislature changed the scope of the work to that of a junior college, at the same time changing the school's name to Potomac State School.

Mr. Stayman became the first president. D. A. Christopher was the first dean, succeeded in 1922 by Frank Mauzy, who served until 1936.

Potomac State's Fiftieth Anniversary

GOLDEN ANNIVERSARY

The change to junior college status was not a clean-cut break with the past, however, for the school's program continued to contain some secondary work of a preparatory nature and even some normal departments.

By 1929, all offerings were put on a strictly college level and made to conform with the Lower Division at the University. The Legislature of 1935 placed the college under the management of the Board of Governors of West Virginia University and the name became Potomac State School of West Virginia University.

Since its beginning as a junior college, Potomac State has grown in stature to take its place among the institutions of higher learning in the state.

Most of the students have come from West Virginia and nearby Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia. Other states, especially Maine, New Jersey, New York, and Delaware have been represented by fairly large numbers of students. Even Sweden and Puerto Rico have been represented.

Among additions to the physical plant were the following which were completed before Mr. Stayman's presidency ended: Reynolds Hall, a residence for women (1925); a home for the president; a chemistry building improvised from a small frame structure at one corner of the campus; the College Gymnasium (1928); and an athletic field was laid out on a part of the farm land (1932).

Ernest Elliott Church became president of the college and Kirkland Shepherd McKee its dean in the fall of 1936.

The physical plant of the college continued to grow. Homes for six faculty families were erected (1936), a modern dairy barn was built (1940), the State Farm was increased to 260 acres (1943), Arcadia Heights housing area for veterans was provided (1946), a portable building containing two classrooms and a Student Center were added (1947).

The celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the school was heightened by the completion of an $800,000 Science Hall this year. This new building dedicated October 20, serves the departments of agriculture, biological sciences, chemistry, engineering, geology, home economics, and physics.

Well Balanced Program

Today, Potomac State with its 20 acres of campus and 368 acres of farm land, its well equipped physical plant, and its well staffed faculty, is preparing students who will earn their collegiate degrees in the upper divisions of senior colleges, is training young men and women to do useful and profitable work following the termination of two years training in semiprofessional courses, and is serving the community in offering an adult education program.

Potomac State is fully accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the University of the State of New York, and by the American Medical Association Council for Pre-Medical Work.

A well balanced program of extra-curricular activities provides social and cultural advantages for the students. A student-faculty committee on public exercises arranges for a series of convocations to bring to the campus a variety of programs in the form of lectures, music, and drama of nationally recognized merit. The student newspaper, The Pasquino, and the yearbook, The Catamount, provide an outlet for those with writing ability. There are three fraternities and three sororities, Sigma Phi Omega honor society, and Delta Psi Omega dramatic honorary. The Newman Club and the Christian Youth Fellowship encourage the spiritual life of the student. Other clubs are Players, Singers, Home Economics, Folio Book, Engineers, Radio, Women's Athletic Association, Band, Orchestra, Debaters, Medi-Sci, Sports, and a newly organized 4-H Club.

Forty-one former students gave their lives in World War II. Sergeant Edward Kelly was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor posthumously.

Currently there are 345 young men and women students attending Potomac State and 33 instructors.

DR. ELIZABETH A. ATWATER

We Honor

Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater came to Potomac State School in 1939. In her classes in the Play Shop cub reporters worked on the Pasquino, Thespians handled grease paint, and many a student hid his nervousness behind a speaker's podium to get credit for an "elective." Elizabeth Atwater has used both class instruction and extracurricular opportunities to inculcate in her students integrity, mental alertness, and nobility of character. Her friendly smile, gracious manner, and enthusiastic support of Potomac State activities have endeared her to those on campus, in Keyser, and throughout West Virginia.

The staff of the 1952 Catamount honors, in dedication, Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater.

Kappa Delta Psi

Kappa Delta Psi Sorority is the youngest sorority on Potomac State's campus, having been officially founded April 26, 1951. The aims of the group are to further scholarship and friendship.

Following an informal "blue-jean" party held during Rush Week, nine girls became Kappa Pledges. In late October, a formal initiation ceremony was held for the newcomers.

In December the sorority voted to prepare a basket of foodstuffs for a needy family. The project was carried out, and the parcels were wrapped and delivered following the sorority's Christmas party.

As their part in the college's Student Center Saturday Night activities, Kappa Delta Psi sponsored a "Make Believe Ballroom" which featured dancing and refreshments.

In school-wide elections, Joyce Nelson was chosen to reign as "Miss Catamount XIII" at Homecomings, and Delores Smith was named Sophomore Belle.

Enjoying the distinction of being the largest fraternity at Potomac State this year, members of Phi Kappa Omega Fraternity have been actively engaged in furthering its objectives of high scholarship, sound moral character, and cooperation in working for the best interests of its members as individuals, the fraternity as a group, and for the betterment of the college.

Active brothers inaugurated the fall term by entertaining new men at a Smoker. A successful pledge party followed later in the term, which added 35 new members to the fraternity.

The fraternity proudly points to the election of two members of the sister organization, Kappa Delta Psi Sorority, to positions of honor on the campus: Miss Catamount of 1951, Miss Joyce Nelson; and Sophomore Belle of 1952, Miss Delores Smith.

Social functions sponsored by the fraternity included the annual Easter Ball, April 5, and the annual spring picnic at Pleasant Valley, Maryland.

Epsilon Chapter of Sigma Iota Chi is the oldest sorority on the campus of Potomac State. When originally founded in 1903 at the University of the South at Sewanee, Tennessee, it was an honor society, but it has since become a social organization. This sorority has become the largest national junior college sorority in the United States. It stresses the importance of scholastic achievement and fellowship, thus carrying on the spirit and ideals of the first chapter.

Twenty pledges were received in October after attending the "Circus Rush Party." On Founders' Day the Sigma patronesses were honored at a reception.

Miss Patricia Hartsfield and Mr. George Ours were crowned King and Queen of Winter at the Jingle Bell Hop. Before the Christmas holidays Mrs. Barbara Kuhns entertained the group at her home. Miss Norma Jean Stark was elected Freshman Belle. The Sigmas gave the annual Sweetheart Ball in February when Miss Margaret Secrist was chosen "Sigma Sweetheart." Reigning as May Queen was Miss Addie McLaughlin and members of the court were Miss Patricia Hartsfield, Miss Mitzi Kiser, and Miss Margaret Secrist.

The fraternity sponsored a number of successful activities during the year, some of which are as follows: the pledge party held in the new Science Hall and at the home of Mr. James T. Handlan, Jr.; and a Saturday night dance at the Student Center.

Miss Patricia Hartsfield and Mr. George Ours were crowned Queen and King of Winter at the thirteenth annual Jingle Bell Hop, December 14.

Phi Sigma Nu has for the past seven years, won the Dean's Scholarship Award given to the Greek-letter organization making the highest total scholastic average as a group. Phi Sigma Nu demands of its members scholastic achievement, college spirit, high moral standing, and interest in all college activities. The fraternity, a leader in campus activities, is proud that its members hold many important offices on the campus, and the lasting bonds of friendship established here will be treasured memories for many years to come.

Eta Upsilon Gamma was founded at Christian College, Columbia, Missouri, in 1901 and is the oldest national junior college sorority in the National College Pan-Hellenic. The aims of the sorority are to promote scholarship, to stimulate school spirit, and to enrich and broaden friendship.

The home of Mary Mac Bess was the site of an informal Hallowe'en rush party. The Gammas co-sponsored the Spring Formal in March with their brother fraternity, the Theta Sigma Chi.

The Gamma Lamp pin to be worn during the 1951-1952 term was awarded to Margaret Bess, who had the highest average among the pledges last year.

Theta Sigma Chi Fraternity started as a social club, November 2, 1922. Shortly thereafter the organization became permanent on the campus. Through the years the members have played an important role in all activities of the college.

In 1951-52 the social season of the fraternity was once again successful. The annual Harvest Swing was held November 17, featuring Marty Flynn and his Society Ramblers. The fraternity sponsored the "Miss Catamount" contest, October 17, and crowned Miss Joyce Nelson as Miss Catamount XIII. The traditional Spring Formal on March 15 was the outstanding event of the second semester.

One of the seven founders of the Theta Sigma Chi Fraternity, Mr. Ronald B. Woodyard, was at the Fiftieth Anniversary Homecoming and gave a party to the members. Mr. Woodyard wrote the Constitution of the fraternity and is the donor of several scholarships to Potomac State.

Year after year, the Theta Sigma Chi Fraternity produces leaders on the campus, men who uphold through life the order's high ideals: honor, truth, and fellowship.

Student Council

The governing organization of the student body of Potomac State School is the Student Council, whose major objectives are directing student activities and promoting school spirit.

During Freshman Week the Council assisted in the orientation program for the incoming students; two weeks later the group helped to organize the freshman class, selected freshman rules, and supervised their enforcement through the Kangaroo Court. The Council held "thuses" and sold programs for the football games.

In October the Student Council sponsored one of the most gala affairs on the campus, the annual Homecoming Ball, honoring Miss Joyce Nelson as Miss Catamount; in May the Council cooperated with the physical education department in the May Day festivities, which culminated in the May Queen's Ball.

Upon recommendation of the athletic department, the Council presented letters, sweaters, and special awards to athletes. Band members were awarded their letters upon the recommendation of their director.

The Pan-Hellenic Council, governing body of the Greek letter organizations on campus, is composed of three members, two sophomores and a freshman, from each fraternity and sorority. The Council serves as a forum for the discussion of problems pertaining to fraternal life. Its aim is to promote good fellowship and co-operation among the fraternities and sororities on the campus, to assist in keeping up the spirit of the school, and to maintain the highest ideals of life, character, and citizenship. Pan-Hellenic arranges the annual social program for these societies and arbitrates school campaigns and elections.

Sigma Phi Omega

Sigma Phi Omega was established at Potomac State School in 1923 in order to recognize scholarship and campus leadership. This honor society is an entirely local one, with its own constitution, ritual, insignia, and traditions.

This year fifteen members returned to the campus, and this number was augmented by the election and initiation of Norma Alt, William T. Brown, James Hays, and George Winkler early in the fall semester. At the close of the semester one member, Sarah Alexander, completed her work at Potomac State School and transferred to West Virginia University.

The organization presented the twelfth annual Know Your Organizations program to the school at the first convocation after the beginning of the fall term and presented the companion program, recognizing campus leadership, at the last convocation of the year. The formal initiation of new members and banquet in their honor have an important place on the school's roster of events.

Sigma Phi Omega not only strives to raise scholarship standards at Potomac State School, but it also encourages participation in student activities and co-operation with the college at all times.

Engineers' Club

The Engineers' Club, organized in 1931, has remained active throughout the past twenty years. The purpose of the organization is to acquaint the students with the different fields of engineering. During the first semester of the college year, each Friday afternoon a series of lectures is given to all freshmen engineers. Field trips to industrial plants throughout the tri-state area are taken to produce a satisfactory sequence to the professional atmosphere surrounding this important phase of an engineer's college life.

During the second semester, the club assumes a much more social aspect. Both freshmen and sophomore engineers meet monthly and hear visiting professional engineers, who give lectures on the industry they represent. These meetings are usually concluded with informal chats with the visitors. The Engineers' Club considers itself the only professional organization on the campus and limits its membership to engineering students enrolled at Potomac State.

Golden Anniversary

Ranking among the greatest football teams in Potomac State history, the 1951 Catamounts ended the season with a record of seven wins and one loss. Under the able leadership of Coach Lough and backfield Coach John Maiden, a powerful defensive team was developed that not only equalled the record of last year's team but outscored their opponents with 172 points to only 35 for the opposition.

Potomac 13 Salem 7

Potomac State opened the season away from home by downing Glenville. John Matkowsky ran 38 yards for the initial touchdown in the second quarter and cracked over from the two yard line in the third period. Poe kicked the lone extra point.

Potomac State 13 George Washington 'B' 0

Potomac State gained revenge over George Washington University 'B' for last year's lone lost. Denninson blocked a G. W. punt and John Emch covered the ball in the end zone. Reed missed the extra point. In the fourth period Joe Niedbala crossed the goal from the two yard line. Bill Reed converted.

Potomac State 12 Newport News 0

The Catamounts met Newport News away from home in their third contest. Quarterback Dick Anderson hit end Vern Wilson with a pass in the second quarter that produced the initial TD as Wilson jaunted 31 yards to paydirt. Dick Poe scored the second touchdown as he scored on a 34 yard romp with an intercepted pass.

Potomac State 32 Montgomery 0

Potomac State scored their first TD with only five minutes gone as John Matkowsky climaxed a 60 yard march with a 27 yard run. In the second quarter, Dick Anderson fired a 22 yard pass to Totten in the end zone. Reed converted. Anderson passed to Totten for another TD after Parinella had intercepted a Montgomery pass. Reed converted. George Baird scored on a quarterback sneak early in the third quarter after a Montgomery fumble was recovered by Long. Bannick cracked over for the final score.

Potomac State 12 Concord 14

Potomac State suffered their first loss of the season at the hands of Concord College on Homecoming day. Concord broke the scoring ice in the second period on an Atwell to Halsey touchdown pass. Diachenkp converted. Baird scored the first TD for the Catamounts on a sneak from the one yard line. Rose's try for the extra point was wide. Niedbala passed to Winghart for State's final TD.

Potomac State 26 Shepard 7

Shepard's Potts ran 77 yards for a quick touchdown early in the first quarter. After this sudden burst the Catamounts took command of the game and rang up four TD's. Niedbala passed to Wilson for an extra point just after Baird had passed to Wilson for a 50 yard TD play. Matkowsky carried the ball around right end for the second score. Carpenter bucked over late in the third period. Niedbala passed to Poe for the conversion. Rose scored in the fourth quarter.

Potomac State 31 Salem 7

The Catamounts got hot in the opening period on a cold day as George Baird scored from two yards out and Niedbala passed to Poe for the extra point. In the second quarter Niedbala passed to Winghart for the score. Salem scored in the third quarter on a Lucas to Henry pass. Sutton recovered a fumble and Rose ran 40 yards for the score. Baird banged over from two yards out and Niedbala climaxed the game by running 80 yards for the final score.

Potomac State 33 Fort Monroe 7

Potomac State rang down the curtain on their football season with a 33-7 triumph over Fort Monroe. Rose scored twice on runs of 2 and 15 yards. Carpenter ran 42 yards on the third play from scrimmage and fumbled in the end zone where Denninson fell on the ball for a State TD. Bannick and Matkowsky scored the other two touchdowns. Fort Monroe's only score came when Morgan scored from 29 yards out in the closing minutes of the game.

ABSENT when the picture was taken were Emil Lipscomb, John Mullenex, Joe Talbott, Tom Weaver, and Charles Workman.

The 1951-52 Potomac State basketball team got off to a bad start by dropping their first game of the season to Morris Harvey by a score of 72-59.

The Catamounts lost the second game to West Virginia Tech by a 88-54 score. Six-foot five-inch Tom Blackwood led the State attack with 30 points. Potomac State broke into the winner's circle at the expense of Shenandoah College on a score of 97-60. Vince Murovich led the State attack with 24 points. Potomac State split their next two games by winning over Frostburg 85-70 and dropping a 77-59 game to West Liberty. Murovich was top scorer for the Catamounts in both games with 23 and 19 points respectively.

Golden Anniversary

Potomac State roared back from the Christmas holidays with a string of victories: Gallaudet College 84-61, Shepard College 92-71, A & B 72-69, Glenville 67-55, and Steubenville 81-74. The winning ways of the Catamounts were brought to a screeching halt by West Liberty College to the tune of 88-67.

As the second semester opened Potomac State lost six-foot five-inch Tom Blackwood, high point man on the squad. Tom Alcock filled the vacated center position. Alcock dumped in 25 points in his first game as a starter to lead Potomac State to a 75-67 victory over the Salem Tigers. On January 30 Potomac State led by Tom Alcock turned Frostburg back, 77-52.

Coach Lough's Catamounts copped their tenth game in fourteen starts by downing Westinghouse of Pittsburgh 91-85 in a close game. The Catamounts journeyed to Shepard on February 5 to nose out a close 82-76 win. Tom Alcock became one of the highest scorers in the conference for a single game by dumping in 41 points. Led by Dick Poe, George Klein, and substitute Bob Lee, Potomac walked over an outclassed Montgomery team to the tune of 78-47. Potomac State downed Concord College by a slim 10 point margin of 85-75.

Potomac State College embarked on a three game road trip and dropped three straight games to Morris Harvey, West Virginia Tech, and Glenville by scores of 65-63, 91-73, and 69-53. Potomac closed their regular season by downing Shenandoah College on the local court.

Potomac State entered the Conference tournament at Buckhannon as a complete underdog with a 6-7 Conference record and a 14-7 overall record. This defeated the defending Champions Glenville 74-61. In the second round of the tournament the Catamounts dropped a 65-54 game to D. & E.

So ended a fairly successful basketball season for an all freshman Potomac State squad who with little experience made themselves well known in The West Virginia State Collegiate Conference.
